Just the moment you apply Sulphur to an itching, burning outbreak on skin, the itching and burning ceases, says a noted dermatologist. This sulphur preparation made into a pleasant cold cream, soothes a chafed rash, even the eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place.

Because of its germ destroying qualities, it quickly kills the bacteria, the irritation and heat of eczema right up, leaving a smooth skin in place of welts, rashes, pimples or roughness.

You do not have to wait for the cream to dry, as it shows you just a little sign of Redness Sulphur at any drug store—Amen.

NEWS OF DAY AT SCOTSDALE BRIEFLY TOLD

Large Attendance Reported at Meeting of Community
Bible Study Class.

SCHOOL SITE DECIDED

Special to The Courier.
SCOTSDALE, Feb. 7.—The rainy weather lent oomph to the spirits of those who had been attending the Bible school being conducted in the Y. M. C. A. each Thursday evening. Rev. R. S. Harlow of Mount Pleasant had charge of the class while the regular teachers had the other classes. More interest is being shown each Thursday evening and each school with representatives present is striving for the special recognition that will be given at the close of the course.

Miss Farmer Hostess.
Miss Evelyn Farmer of Mulberry street entertained the Queen Esther Circle at its regular business and social session at her home last evening. Refreshments were served.

"Recalling" Services.
A series of "recalling services" for the Christian Life will be held Holy Week and the two weeks immediately following Easter at the Methodist Episcopal Church. A special song leader will be engaged. Auxiliary Entertained.

Miss Janet Ritzke entertained the young ladies auxiliary to the Missionary Society of Trinity Reformed Church at its regular business and social meeting at her home last evening.

Each to Bring Guest.
The Monday Musical Club will hold an open meeting at the Reformed Church Monday evening. Instead of the Porter and Stener Hall, as had been announced. Each member of the club may bring a guest.

Hill Come Saturday.
The Scottdale Y. M. C. A. Intermediate will play their eighth game Saturday when they will meet the Greensburg Methodist Junior at the Scottdale Y. M. C. A. floor.

School Site Purchase Authorized.
At a meeting of the school board of East Huntingdon township Monday evening it was decided to buy enough land from the H. C. Fryck Co. Company at Tarr to erect a high school. The board will pay $50 an acre for the ground. The property is on the site now occupied by the grade schools of Barr.

Talk on Banking.
Next Thursday J. M. Zimmers, president of the Scottdale Trust Company, will speak to the schools on "The General Idea of the Bank." This is a part of a series of talks that will be given.

Gifts for Wounded Soldiers.
The W. C. T. U. is working on knitted squares to be turned in to Mrs. H. C. Fox, superintendent of soldier and sailor work so that an advance may be sent to one of Scottdale's wounded World War veterans by February 15, Lincoln's Birthday. They will also need quilts, etc., to the soldiers of Scottdale in hospitals.

Mrs. Stoner's Funeral.
Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at the home of Lydia Stoner of Alverton for his mother, Mrs. Hannah Stoner, and interment followed in the cemetery at Alverton.

Alverton Club House.
The Alverton Club, an organization of the younger girls of Scottdale, will give its first dance at Reid Hall this evening.

Take Notice.
You are invited to hear our local talent, Miss Betty Kate Stone play the piano from station KDKA, February 8, 8:30 P. M. at our receiving station. Free! Scottdale Battery Service, 106 Market street.

Says—Now Stiff Joints Must Go

New Discovery Limbers 'Em Up and Even the Creaking Cases.

Ten: It's true—the world progresses. All you have to do is know how to limber up that stiff, rusty knee joint in a squeeze a half inch of miracle working substance from a tube. Then rub it on the offending part for about a quarter of a minute or until it soaks through the skin and disappears on its errand of mercy. Then read the evening newspaper and go to bed.

The chances are that your misbehaving knee joint will lose its "creak" while you are dreaming about the high fence you used to leap when you were a youngster.

"And in the morning," says one who has tried the new discovery, "you'll feel so happy that you'll want to jump into your 'sporter' clothes and walk briskly down the street just to show the neighbors that you are no as old as they think you are."

Joint-Knee: They call this wonderful working substance for the reason that when ordinary remedies fail to limber up the stiff, indurated rheumatoid joint, or reduce the swelling Joint-Knee surrounds.

It's a good name for a good, clean, safe, clean prescription that in just a few minutes has proven to a multitude of people that joint, swollen, distorted joints can quickly have the kinks taken out of them and work as smoothly as ever.

But joint-knee is for horsemen, joint-knee, whether it be in the ankle, hip, shoulder, spine or finger, and for that purpose its sale is immense. Connelville Tube Co. and all drug-gists everywhere report a big demand. Advertisement.

CONFLUENCE, Feb. 7.—Mrs. Betty Jones was a visitor to Buffalo Run yesterday.

Mrs. Frank Kutz is reported ill. Mrs. M. M. Brooke is reported improving from a recent illness.

Getting Rid of a Stubborn Cough is Child's Play Now

Make the Medicine Yourself at Home
It's Cheap—but You Can't Beat It.

If you want to take care of that bad, hacking cough and do it in a few hours, better get one ounce of Parment (double strength) and mix a half pint at home.
You can do this in two minutes by adding a little sugar and enough water to fill a half pint bottle.
You'll travel the world over before you get a medicine that will act so sure and quick on the mucous membrane of the nose and throat. It halts the inflammation, the tickling sensation stops with the first dose and the hacking breathing goes and clean membrane, free from irritation and mucus follows.
For Catarrhal conditions such as mucous rhinitis, enlarged nostrils and watery eyes, it won't disappoint—ask for Parment (double strength). Speak plainly so that the druggist will know exactly what you want—Advertisement.

FINE AND IMPRISONMENT

Penalties for Refusal to Answer, or
For Giving False Information; Access to Books and Papers to be Permitted on Demand of Commission.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—A bill has been favorably reported from the House Committee on Interstate Commerce the subject of which is to further extend the powers of the United States Coal Commission, by amending the act creating that body.

The provisions of that act by which the commission is created are re-enacted in the new bill and three new sections are added. These empower the commission and its authorized representative to submit questionnaires to any person, who is required to answer in writing, under oath, within the time specified by the commission or its representative. Under the new section refusal to answer and return the questionnaires or giving of false testimony, evidence statements and entries is made an offense for which a $1000 fine, or imprisonment for not more than one year, or both, is provided. In case of refusal to obey subpoenas, to testify or to permit access to documentary evidence the commission is authorized to invoke the aid of the federal district courts to compel obedience.

The full text of the new sections follows:

Section 3.—The commission or any officer, employee or agent thereof duly authorized by the commission may prepare and submit to and require to be answered by any person written questions of fact concerning any of the matters which by this act the commission is empowered or directed to investigate, and such person shall thereupon answer fully and in good faith any and all questions so propounded. Such answers shall be in writing and shall be verified by oath of the persons making them and shall be returned to the commission or the officer or agent thereof at the time which the commission or any officer or agent thereof duly authorized by the commission may prescribe. The oath may be taken before any member of the commission or any officer or agent of the commission duly authorized or before any officer authorized by the laws of the state in which verification is made, but when taken before a notary or other state officer such oath shall be certified under the hand and official seal of such officer.

Section 4.—Any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to attend and testify or depose, or to produce or permit access to any book, account, record, document, correspondence, paper, or to submit such answers, as herein provided for, and any person who shall wilfully give false testimony in respect of any matter or thing under investigation by the commission, or shall wilfully make or cause to be made any false entry or statement of fact in any written answer or report called for by the commission or any officer or agent thereof as herein provided for, and any person who shall wilfully make or cause to be made any false entry or statement of fact in any book, account, record, document, correspondence, paper, or other evidence, with intent to deceive the commission on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $500, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Section 11.—In case of disobedience to any subpoena issued by the commission or any member thereof or of refusal or neglect to testify concerning any matter or thing investigated by the commission, or of refusal to make written answer to any question propounded by the commission or any officer or agent thereof, or refusal to permit access to any book, account, record, document, correspondence, paper, or other evidence, by any person, the commission may invoke the aid of the District Court of the United States for the district in which such person resides, in requiring obedience to its process, orders, and requests; and the several District Courts of the United States are hereby invested with jurisdiction in case such contumacy or refusal to obey the process, orders, and requests of the commission, as to a civil order requiring compliance therewith. Any failure to obey such order or of the court may be punished by the court as a contempt thereof. For the purposes of this section the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia shall be considered a District Court of the United States.

Chairman Whitlow of the Interstate Commerce Committee who is sponsor of the bill, has announced his intention of calling it up in the House at an early date and will endeavor to have it passed as quickly as possible.

WHITE FUR VOGUE

Ermine Is Much in the Limelight for Trimming.

White Casual and Other Snowy Petticoats for Sports, Everyday and Evening Wear.

It looks like a white, winter! as reports a fashion correspondent in the Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Your brilliant sweaters of scarlet and flaming yellow, your gay stockings of vermilion, your socks of orange or green! All wonderful against a field of snow, or against a sky of frost gray—What could be better?

What? An outfit of pure white? White against the snow, (especially against the city snow of a day's standing?) White against the gray sky—more brilliant than color!

A skirt of white, a cap of white, a coat of white—this last of white casual. And here we come to the point. White furs are the thing of the year. White, casual fur, for sports wear, everyday wear, and for evening wear, too.

For daytime wear, the casual is made up into short hip-length jackets, sometimes pocketed, and with hats to match—lams, or toques.

For evening wear, the white casual is in cape form in the thing. It is rather long, but never should hang below the ankles. A glimpse of the evening gown twist the foot and the end of the cape is desirable and very pretty.

Ermine Trims the Smart Jacket.

and the "style." One of these ankle-length capes has a revers collar that tapers into the cape when it reaches half way down its length.

In a season notable for gowns of rich fabrics of golden silks and silver cloths and brilliant brocades, fur-trimmed frocks, exotic earrings, jewels and tiaras, it is only fitting that ermine should take its place in the picture. And it certainly does. It is trimming the finest of black coats, and the quaintest of black velvet gowns. And all by itself, untripped, it is making the most luxurious spectacles seen in many, many years—ever!

WHITE JADE THE SMARTEST

Rich White Stone Decoration Prompts to Supersede the Popular Green Ornaments.

One who knows has this to say to jade: "Green Jade is still popular, indeed, its lovely color makes it well high in vogue, but since fashion says white, the cool green ornament will soon be superseded."

"Jade comes from China, where for ages it has been considered one of the most desirable of stones. The name comes from a Spanish word, which in turn comes from a Latin word meaning 'green'." It was used in Rome, as I remember Greece and Egypt, and in Rome it was supposed to have some medicinal qualities and was worn to cure a pain in the side; hence its name.

"The stone has also been found in the ruins of an ancient civilization in Mexico and in the remains of the Incas' houses in Switzerland."

VIOLET AND YELLOW POPULAR

Old Style Shades Receive Return Call; Accessories to Match; Touches of Silver.

The old blue-violet shade is in demand again and accessories chosen to match, with touches of silver for trimming.

Silks and the underthings are matched to the costumes of violet and yellow, and the resplendent silks with jewels, as well as the evening wrap must match the frock.

The trappings of the prospective brides are chosen on the same lines, and here again the blue-violet and soft yellows are seen, with sometimes a combination of the colors in one garment with trimmings of valence lace, tulle and lace and tiny yellow and violet flowers.

For the Dance.

Certain hats designed especially for dancing have the brim cut off at one side, double to make one's partner's face and feelings. The lady of brim on the one side is compensated for by very high trimming.

Cheap.

"Well, there's one good thing about that wedding present you're sending him."

"What is it?"

"They won't need to go to the expense of hiring detectives to guard it."

Mind Reading.

Edging Doc (taking pulse of old patient)—I rather think that you regard me as a quack.

Patient—Doctor, you certainly surprised me by reading my thoughts.

Edging Doc—My pulse.

More Locomotives Repaired; Fewer in Need of Attention

A total of 12,724 locomotives were repaired and turned out of the shops of the Class One railroads from December 15 to January 1 last. This is the greatest number of locomotives on record for any corresponding period repaired and turned out of the shops, according to the bi-monthly report of the Car Service Division of the American Railway Association. Reports also showed a marked decrease in the number of locomotives in need of repair. On January 1 last 15,549 were in a pool of repairs, or 24.1 per cent of the locomotives on line. This was a reduction of 2,324 since December 15 last, at which time there were 17,873, or 27.7 per cent.

Gray Stock Car Sets Economy Record

33.8 Miles Per Gallon

SAN FRANCISCO TO NEW YORK

In driving 4,819 miles from coast to coast, the Gray Stock car has set a new official record, proving its economy on every sort of road. Mountains, desert trails and deep mud were encountered as well as city streets and broad highways. Its record of 33.8 miles per gallon of gasoline under these conditions is an achievement never paralleled in automobile history. It establishes a new standard of performance and efficiency.

This was an official test run, directed throughout by the American Automobile Association. Every detail of the Gray's sensational performance is certified by this recognized authority.

And it was strictly a stock car—just such a car as we can show you today.

Home and Porch Dresses

FRIDAY and SATURDAY

An Eagerly Awaited Annual Event That Sounds the First Note of Spring

This annual Spring showing and Sale of Barmon Dresses has become one of the most important events of the year and women have accustomed themselves to look forward to this Sale as the ideal time to purchase their Spring supply of Washable Frocks for home and porch wear.

This season the styles are charming beyond description. The colors radiate and sparkle with the brilliancy of Spring buds and blossoms and will win the admiration of all women who seek Frocks of rare loveliness and extraordinary economy.

Be Sure to See the Feature Demonstration

Barmon Dresses have Four Famous Features which will be demonstrated at our Store during the course of this Sale. Every woman who is interested in dresses of better fit, greater comfort and longer service should see this demonstration.

By buttoning two tabs, concealed beneath a smart panel at the back of the dress, the size of the garment can be so altered to perfectly fit any and all types of figures.

Under-Arm-Shields are tailored into these Dresses and provide practically double service at these points, which all women know are first to wear out on ordinary dresses.

If it becomes necessary to tighten the skirt, due to tall figures or shrinkage, you need only pull a thread which releases a two-inch concealed tuck. No restitching necessary.

Every Barmon Dress is provided with two Menders of Dress Material which are fastened to the inner part of the garment. Torn or worn places are quickly and neatly repaired with these Menders.

The Most Difficult Figures Are Perfectly Fitted

All women of large, full-fashioned or unusual proportions, who have always experienced difficulty in being properly fitted—can be perfectly fitted—with Barmon Dresses due to a patented Size-Adjustment which is an exclusive Barmon feature—and which accomplishes this perfection of fit with slenderizing, complimentary effect.

The Moderate Costs Will Amaze and Delight You

It is difficult to understand how such finely made garments—fashioned from the best of Percales, Madras, Chambrays and Ginghams—beautifully trimmed and decorated, can be offered at such trifling costs—and you will quickly follow the example of other women who buy their full Spring supply while this sale is in progress.

LENGTH OF SKIRT

Nine to Ten Inches From Ground, the Happy Medium.

Afternoon Toilettes to Be Four to Five Inches; Eccentric Period Styles Often Trail.

The length of skirts is still variable, but the consensus of opinion is that the street skirt will be nine to ten inches from the ground. More dressy afternoon toilettes will be four to five inches from the ground. Eccentric period styles, both in evening and day, are still prevalent, and the shorter lengths—that is, from nine to ten inches above the ground—that one might expect this to be the smartest length. Other variations will be more or less a personal and individual thing, according to a fashion authority.

Surprising as it may seem, the skirt remains narrow, often extremely narrow. Fullness, when introduced, is unobtrusive and is usually achieved by use of the circular cut. There is less unevenness about the hem, many of the skirts being even all the way around. The one-sided drape is a strong feature even in the plainest tailored dresses and coats, also the wide, overlapping, one-side effect is also much noted in skirts.

Tailored suits are very pronounced in the showing of both two and three-piece effects. A great majority of the suits are waist length and in straight, belted or slightly belted styles. The exceptions are incidental novelties. In very short box pleated styles, Chinese mandarin full-skirted coats and three-quarter length, circular cut effects, the latter usually trimmed with fur.

The three-piece idea is prominent. It expresses itself in two forms—the smart one-piece coat dress with matching jacket, or the dress with a thin or satin dress with a wool coat entirely covering it, the lining of which is made of the same material as the dress.

EARLY SPRING KNITTED CAPE

This is an early spring cape of beige-colored knitted wool and wool yarn, worn with a long throw scarf of many-colored silk. The hat is of beige-colored felt.

NEW COATS REVEL IN COLOR

Outstanding Example of Vogue is the Short Jacket Made of Paisley Shawls.

The Bible historians were not explicit in stating the length of Joseph's coat—all we know is that it was of many colors. Whether it was short or full length is not clearly stated, otherwise the most popular and modish coat of the moment could be entirely likened to the most celebrated coat of color.

Just now, nothing appears quite so modish at fashionable gatherings as the short jacket that reveals in color. The outstanding example of this vogue is the short, fringed jacket of Paisley shawl, which is the preponderant color. The Paisley shawl and green are seen repeatedly, so that the aspect of the bazaar that generally attended the rare appearance of such a garment, is wholly removed.

Not is the mode confined to the Paisley shawl. Long and other oriental embroidered effects are developed with little modification in one like short jackets which are offered either as separate pieces or as part of a costume.

Knitted Suits. Knitted suits, both in wool and silk, are seen as the season advances. Tan and gray seem to be the most popular colors, and frequently shoes, hat and gloves carry out the same tone.

Just the Kind. She—I do not care to marry you. I do not care even to talk to you. He (a widower)—That is precisely the reason I want you to marry me.

Unfortunate Word. "You appear to have offended the great widow." "Sorry! I merely remarked that she was in her heyday."

A Baldhead Ballad. If I had only asked it back And given it there I might not have such utter lack

THAT FIRST DOLLAR SAVED

Small Amount, of Course, but it Has a Value Far Beyond its Intrinsinc Worth.

It is a very common thing to hear a clever, capable man or woman accused of not knowing "the value of a dollar," or of not being able to "save a dollar."

Before you can make money you must first have a true appreciation of the value of $1; not the value of $1,000 or $100,000, but the true value of $1, says a writer in Thriller.

You have often heard the expression: "To him a dollar looks as large as a house." While this expression is usually applied to a person who is miserly, it would, nevertheless, be an excellent thing if every thriftee person would place a higher appreciation upon $1.

The average person does not throw his earnings away in large sums. He saves $1 here and $1 there in an unthinking manner.

When you enter the office of a successful business man and find the first dollar he made in his business hanging upon the wall in a frame you can, almost invariably, look around and see a great, prosperous establishment.

Whatever has been accomplished by that man is largely due to the value he placed upon the first dollar he made.

Every large fortune or prosperous business establishment has for its cornerstone $1.

LITTLE AFFECTED BY FILTH

Modern Race of Arabs Are Seemingly Immune From Generally Fatal Zymotic Diseases.

Northern Arabia is a land virtually destitute of lakes and streams, and during the dry season even the frequent wells cannot be depended upon so that the provision of a sufficient water is a primary consideration.

"The Arabs carry their own drinking supply in large quantities, two of which are usually slung under the belly of each camel, but the water in these, usually of doubtful origin, quickly acquires a taste which makes it almost undrinkable for Europeans."

When the supply in the drinking water is so scanty, it is not surprising that no one of an Arab could drink it and live to tell about it. I imagine, however, that every Arab susceptible to zymotic diseases died thousands of years ago, and that by the law of the survival of the fittest, all Arabs born now are immune from filth diseases.

This is the only explanation of why they can drink sewage water with impunity, go for months at a time without bathing, wear garments which are coated with dirt and sweat with vermin, and thrive under conditions which would kill a white man in a week.—E. Alexander Powell in the Century Magazine.

Easy Way to Make Friends.

A Texas man who found it somewhat difficult to make acquaintances when he first moved to his town and who has known of others in a similar plight, says he has solved the trouble.

"Take it from me," he remarked, "it is the simplest thing in the world, and the cost is not burden some. Get a lot of light and easily-handled ladders and a good, substantial collapsible step ladder, and that's all there is to it."

"At the season when everybody is putting on storm windows the fellow who has easily handled ladders of various lengths and is willing to lend them is bound to be the most popular chap in the neighborhood."

"The borrowing and lending breaks the ice, and the rest develops in natural course. The fellow with the ladders will be 'in' until spring and then he will share the distinction with the neighbor who is the fortunate possessor of a lawn roller."—New York Sun.

Average Would Be Maintained. Bret Harte was once lecturing at Harrisburg, in Virginia, and on the morning of his arrival had such a terrible headache that he said he would cheerfully have died there and then.

THE RIGHT CORSET

If you still wear 'em, it is important that you should know the kind of corset you can wear with greatest comfort and the kind that gives you the best shape.

There are recognized to be nine types of women to be fitted with corsets, and all up-to-date corset-makers now provide for these types. They are: (1) The short, plump figure; (2) The tall, slender figure; (3) The short-waisted figure; (4) The tall, heavy figure; (5) The full hip figure; (6) The full-bust figure; (7) The slender figure; (8) The slender figure; and (9) The normal figure.

Here are a few suggestions as to the kinds of corsets that are best for your build.

If you have a short, slender figure, choose a corset moderately short, light in weight and with few stays.

The same holds for the tall, slender figure with the added caution that the corset must be long enough over the hips to give an unbroken line. Never wear a corset too tight, as this only makes a slender woman appear more slender.

For the short-waisted figure the corset should be fitted rather loosely, and worn well down on the figure. Be sure that the corset is short enough below the waist line in front.

The short, heavy figure requires a corset with short stays, to prevent "lifting" up when the wearer sits down, thus making her appear shorter-waisted than ever.

If you are tall, inclined to the heavy figure, wear a corset with a very long skirt. Let the length come at the back and sides, however, keeping it short in front. A corset that is too tight on a large woman will cause her to appear to be "all corset."

The full hip figure has the same problem and the corset must be long and well-banded over the hips. Several strong elastic are necessary to fasten the corset to legs. Do not wear corset tight in an attempt to reduce size of hips, or tensioning of the corset will show, giving an ugly line.

For the full-bust figure it is generally more satisfactory to wear low-banded corset and wear the extra band in a well-fitting bra.

The slender figure takes an ordinary corset, and where the back is very much curved, a small corset-pad is attached to the inside of the corset where needed.

If you have the happy perfect figure, you have only to choose the corset size for your waist and a comfortable length and weight. A size two inches smaller than your ordinary measurement is the general rule.

MANY VARIETIES OF HATBAND

History Shows That Particular Ornamentation Has Been Worn Since Long Before Christian Era.

From the descriptions discovered on the walls of ancient temples it is apparent, so far back as 3500 B. C., Egyptian women used a band with streamers to fasten their hair, tying it in a bow at the back or side. This style was retained by many people, through many centuries, and in the fourteenth century it was used as a "band"—merely a straight band without streamers which held the hair away from the forehead and the eyes.

It was this flint which gave rise to the streamer headbands which were much in vogue during the reign of James I, when, one reads, "Eudymon Porter wore his wife's diamond necklace on his hat during a tour in Spain but it appeared like paste to the gorgeousness of the duke of Buckingham, who wore the 'Mirror of France' (the finest diamond in England) with a little black feather on the side of his hat."

This position for expensive headgear passed with the waning of the styles of bright colors in men's clothing—but the hatband was retained because of its decorative quality, and because men have become accustomed, through thousands of years, to seeing it worn in one form or another.

New British Parliament

When a new parliament in Great Britain comes into being a qualification is performed with unchanging solemnity. For instance, on the second day of the assembling of a new parliament the speaker-elect receives at the bar of the house of lords from the lords commissioners, as representatives of the sovereign, the royal approval of his election to the chair of the house of commons.

In accordance with an ancient ceremony, that dates from the reign of Henry VIII, he claims the rights and privileges of the representatives of the people, and receives an assurance from the lords chamberlain that all such rights are "readily confirmed" by his majesty.

To Each Man His Part

To shape the whole future is not our problem but only to shape fully a small part of it, according to rules already known. It is perhaps possible for each of us who will with due earnestness inquire, to ascertain for himself his own part, of him, with true heart, to continue doing—

Here's a popular way to serve Kellogg's Bran—greatest health food!

Most every one who realizes how effective Kellogg's Bran is for the permanent relief of constipation has their own particular way of serving this wonderful cereal. Most families eat it as a cereal with milk or cream. Others sprinkle it on their favorite hot or cold cereal. Every one enjoys its nut like flavor.

If you are cooking a hot cereal try this method—Measure off two table-spoonfuls for each member of the family. Mix it with the cereal and look as you always cook the cereal.

Kellogg's Bran is scientifically prepared and ready to eat, but its regulatory powers are in no way impaired if you cook it with other cereals.

Kellogg's Bran has won the friendly recommendation of physicians because it does give prompt and permanent relief from mild or chronic constipation and because it can be eaten without forming a habit. Again, Kellogg's Bran will free you from drastic, dangerous cathartics.

When constipation conditions exist in your system or when you are threatened, do not take half-way measures. Foods with a partial bran content cannot free you! What you must have is Kellogg's Bran because it is ALL BRAN! Go the limit; get rolled!

Every member of your family will delight in eating Bran raisin bread, muffins, pancakes, macaroons, etc. Rejoice on every package.

Start eating Bran to-day! Get well—keep well—keep disease out of your home! First-class hotels, clubs and restaurants serve Kellogg's Bran in individual packages. All grocers.

BOTH MASTERS OF RHETORIC

Scholarly Consideration of the Literary Styles of Abraham Lincoln and Thomas Jefferson.

In American letters we fix on Abraham Lincoln as our type of natural greatness; the legend of his humble beginnings and the plainness of his manner deceive us into a conviction that he was less indebted to art than Thomas Jefferson, and we therefore talk of the rhetorical extravagance of the Declaration and contrast them with the Attic simplicity of the Gettysburg address. John E. B. Tilton writes in the North American Review: "Perhaps we see a final proof of our sound taste in the story that Matthew Arnold gave up the address for lost when he got to the colloquial 'proposition'; 'dedicated to the proposition,' we say, was more than his artificial spirit could bear. Whether Arnold expressed such a qualm, or whether he would have been right in so doing is of less consequence than our emotional readiness. If we cultivate the natural, to accept the Lincoln speech as an illustration of our ideal and to set it over against the artifice of Jefferson's great document—to detect a literary manner in such a phrase as 'When in the course of human events,' and nothing but naturalness in 'four score and seven years ago'—or to find an empty and sounding rhetoric in 'life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness,' but only the same crude syllables of common sense in 'government of the people, by the people, for the people.' Both documents are as rich as they can well be in rhetoric as all great oratory is and of the two Lincoln's, as a matter of fact, is rather more artful in the progress of his ideas."

NOT LONG HELD IN MEMORY

Cleveland Man's Experience is Very Much What Would Come to Most of Us.

It isn't the Rip Van Winkle only who come back to find themselves forgotten. That sort of thing occurs with painful frequency in everyday life. Nor is it necessary for the victim to stay away 20 years. Much less time will suffice him.

Some time ago a man came back from the West, where he had made his home for ten years, and set out to renew old acquaintances. He had been a prominent man in the business life of the city and a member of a leading firm. It was to the habitation of this firm that he directed his footsteps.

As he passed down the sidewalk one of his old partners came to him with outstretched hand.

"Why, hello, how are you? How are things going, and how long do you stay? Sorry I'm so busy. See you later!" But he never came back.

With the senior partner saw him, and came forward.

"Well, well, this is a surprise!" he cried. "How are things coming, and how long do you stay in the city? Drop in whenever you can find time. Sorry to see you go."

This visitor went away feeling hurt and ignored but after all there's little sentiment in business and this Cleveland man's experience has been duplicated countless times, no doubt—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Moving Among the Stars

The poetry of motion is a phrase much in use and to enjoy the epic form of that gratification it is necessary to stand on a hill at a small hour of the night and having laid expand it with a sense of diffidence from the mass of civilized mankind who are voracious and disregarding of all such proceedings at this time long and quietly watch your stately progress through the starry firmament. A nocturnal reconnoiter among these astral clusters, aloft from the customary haunts of thought and vision, some men may feel raised to a capability for eternity at once—Thomas Hardy.

LEAVE HOLE IN VEST POCKET

Don't Should Never Be Darned, Says Jeweler, and Give Good Reason for His Advice.

Here is joyful news for wives who must mend their husbands' socks and thousand-and-one other articles of apparel. Madam, meet M. Hole-in-the-Vest Pocket, who has been decreed a blessing in disguise, and who must never, never under any circumstances, be sewn up or mended.

Here's the dope, remarks a New York Sun writer.

If you know anything about men's vest pockets you would know that dust, such as settles on the top of the mantel where you never dust, accumulates in the corners or the lining of the pocket. Such dust does no harm, except in the one in which the watch is carried, says a jeweler.

"You have a fine watch," says the jeweler. "Could you put it in a pocketful of dust, and what happens? After awhile some of the dust works its way into the works and the timekeeping ability of the watch is ruined. So what can we do to overcome this? It is simple. Punch a little hole in the pocket, then the dust will all drift down into the lintel of the vest, and your watch will have a clean pocket to be in. You will be surprised how it will help your watch."

So you see madam, mending vests must not be darned.

Deafness No Bar to Composition.

The piano, once Beethoven's, and of extra heavy tone because of the composer's deafness, which was recently discovered in Vienna, will doubtless be acquired for the Beethoven museum in the royal library at Berlin—one of the most pathetic collections of the kind in the world. When the first symptoms of deafness became apparent in 1797, the great master became the prey of anxiety bordering on despair, consulting doctors and quacks alike in hope of relief, and the Berlin collection bears witness to the variety of ear trumpets and such-like devices which he tried in the vain hope of as silencing his weakening sense.

Yet it was after he was deaf to all sense of sound without that Beethoven wrote some of his grandest music.

And Then It Happened.

Jinks—"Could you?"

Blinks—"Could you what?"

Jinks—"With this bobbed locks fed say a girl's wave length had been shortened."

BRADDOCK PLAYS COKERS AT HIGH SCHOOL TONIGHT IN BIGGEST GAME OF YEAR

Orange and Black Team Expects to Stop Leaders of League.

PLAY AGAIN TOMORROW

The Connellsville High School plays its biggest league game at the local school tonight. It will meet what appears to be the strongest school team in this section of the State—Bradcock. The outfit has not lost a league game and it is the ambition of every Coker to be the stumbling block.

CASEY AND FRAT TEAMS WIN CITY LEAGUE CONTESTS

The Baltimore & Ohio railroaders and the Casey club put on a fast game at the Connellsville High last night, followed by one equally as good between the Unity Fraternity and Firemen. The Casey won the first contest after the railroaders had hung on their heels practically all the way. The score was 31-22.

The Unity Fraternity defeated the Firemen in an exciting contest. The score was 30-27. The Firemen had been trailing by several points throughout the contest and in the last quarter took a spurt and tied things up at 25-25. The Frat again took the lead and retained it until the close of the game.

Neither the Casey Club nor Frat has lost a game in the league yet and when these two teams clash it will be the signal for a big outpouring of fans.

Next Tuesday the first "feature" game of the schedule will be played. The Casey Club will meet the Legion, an old rival.

The scores:
Casey—31. B. & O.—22.
Boisson—J. Conn
Henry—F. Mullen
Toomey—C. Smith
Buttmore—G. Bush
White—G. Fisher
Substitutions—Travis for Mullen, Alexander for Toomey, Robinson for Evans, Mullen for Conn.
Field goals—Solomon 3, Henry 2, Alexander 2, Buttmore 2, Robinson 2, Bush 2, Conn, Toomey.
Punt goals—Solomon, 3 out of 5; Henry, 3 out of 12; Bush, 12 out of 21.
Referee—Wall.

The Unity Frat-Firemen line up:
Unity Frat—30. Firemen—27.
D'Isco—F. Brown
Struble—F. J. Rusinko
Seaton—C. A. Rusinko
Edmunds—G. Bickada
Feinick—G. Fisher
Field goals—Seaton 4, A. Rusinko 4, Brown 4, Struble 2, Meinko, Bickada.
Punt goals—D'Isco, 15 out of 21; Brown, 5 out of 17.
Referee—Wall.

Baseball Notes.
Jerry Toomey, center for the Casey Club sprained his ankle while playing against the B. & O. team last night.

The Casey-Legion clash next Tuesday will be at 8:15 o'clock.

Connellsville High has lost one home game this season and doesn't intend to let Bradcock spoil this record. The string of straight victories now numbers six.

The South Hills High School, another strong Pittsburg outfit, will play here tomorrow night at the High School gym.

SQUEEZE PUTT SHOT FAVORITE OF BARNES

Recent Description by Noted Golfer Is Criticized.

Idea Is Basically Wrong and Teppin Cannot Be Changed Into Backspin by Wishing It or Saying It Can Be Done.

Some time ago I explained Jim Barnes' unique squeeze putt, writes P. A. Valle, in the Chicago Herald-Examiner. In playing this astonishing stroke James bounces his ball down onto the turf and literally squeezes it out from between the overhanging blade and the green, even as one might squeeze a melon seed from between the thumb and forefinger.

Naturally, as the last point of contact is the earth, the ball takes its spin from the green and goes away with several jumps and a lot of top spin that keeps it running on much longer than one expects it to. That is the simple explanation of what happens when one punches the ball onto the earth.

Recently I saw in an article by or alleged to be a famous golfer the following information on how to play the approach with backspin. Here it is:

"This can be made with a mallet or a midiron. A strange thing about this shot is that it carries a very great amount of backspin."

"The ball is hit into the ground, so to speak. It is squeezed between the earth and the club and escapes with a back spinning motion. At first it has all the appearance of running over the green, but instead it halts near the object aimed for."

"A little practice will enable one to get the idea of the shot, but this will not suffice. If real action is to be obtained a whole summer's practice would be needed to make one perfect."

If "real value is to be obtained" a whole summer of practice would not give it to anyone, because "the idea of the shot" is basically wrong and "teppin" cannot be changed into backspin by wishing it or saying that it can be done.

In playing the approach with backspin one must positively avoid jamming the ball onto the ground. That will give a rubbed shot or teppin such as Jim Barnes gets in his putt.

To get backspin one must hit the ball beneath the center with the face of the club lying back and before it has reached the bottom of the swing. To squeeze it onto the earth would require an overhanging face, no left, and that, of course, is merely silly.

MANY SPORTS ARE THRIVING

Result of Enthusiasm Stirred Up Among Students Attending Pennsylvania University.

Pennsylvania's sports for all students are growing rapidly as a result of the enthusiasm stirred up among those attending the Quaker city institution. Results: frequently on Saturday four to five rugby and a quarter of soccer teams play rivals, lacrosse aspirants are in action, hundreds of track enthusiasts work out, outmen propel boats over the placid Schuylkill and many other branches of sport have their quota of representatives.

HAIR STAYS COMBED, GLOSSY

"Hair-Groom" Keeps Hair Combed—Well-Groomed

Millions Use It—Fine for Hair—Not Sticky, Greasy or Smelly

A few cents buys jar of "Hair-Groom" at any drugstore, which makes even stubborn, unruly or shaggy hair stay combed all day in any style you like. "Hair-Groom" is a dignified combing cream which gives that natural glow and well-groomed effect to your hair—that final touch to good dress both in business and on social occasions. Groomers, stylists, "Hair-Groom" does not show on the hair because it is absorbed by the scalp, therefore your hair remains as soft and pliable and so natural that no one can possibly tell you used it.—Advertisement.

GOOD BUILDINGS ARE PROFITABLE

Cut Labor Costs and Increase Dairy Production.

HEALTH OF ANIMALS ASSURED

Good Animals, Proper Care and Healthful Stables to House Them Are Three Big Essentials to Success as Dairy Farmer.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions in a give advice FREE OF CHARGE on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building on the farm, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 343 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only include two-cent stamp for reply.

It was not many years ago that dairymen with small herds looked upon the modern type of dairy barn as a "frill" if it was designed to please the vanity of the so-called "gentleman farmer." Purchased animals came in much to a waste of cash.

The advent of our testing associations, the instructions of the state agents of animal husbandry and the testing of purebred cows under the direction of the different dairy breed associations put these old notions into the discard. Now the cost of good barns, proper feeding and care is pretty well

There is no gainsaying the fact that there are three essentials to success as a dairy farmer. First, good animals; second, proper care; and third, healthful stables to house the herd during the times of the year when pasture is not available. Even then, a great many dairymen keep the animals in their stalls at night, and not a few rarely turn the cows out.

The housing needs of dairy cows are fresh air, protection from cold and drafts, plenty of light and sunshine, and clean sanitary quarters. Given these things the cows will produce the maximum amount of milk of the best quality their breeding permits.

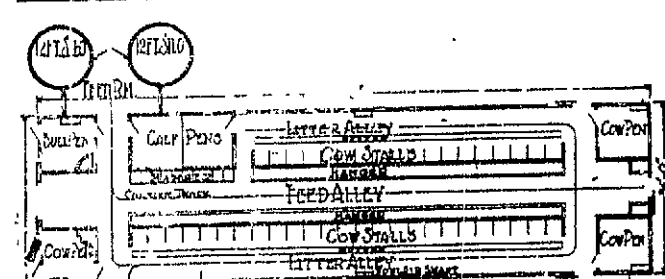

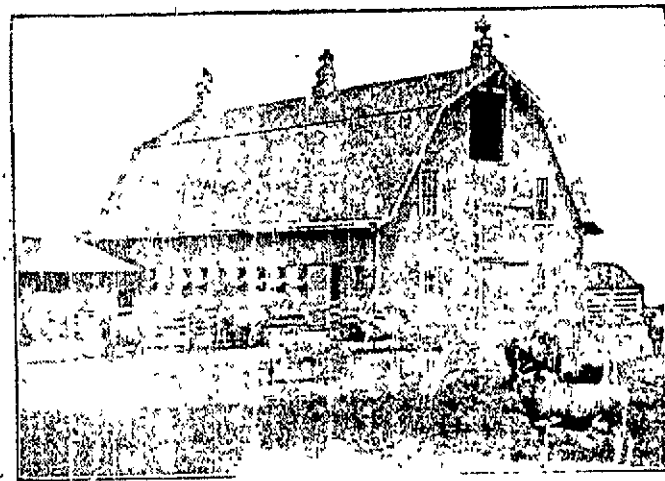

These cow needs are incorporated in the design of the modern dairy barn and stables. The buildings themselves are well constructed, they are equipped with ventilating systems that keep up a constant movement of air, the foul being replaced by fresh; there are plenty of windows so located as to admit the greatest amount of light and sunshine, and the stables are equipped with steel stalls and stanchions, concrete floors and gutters that are pitched so that they can be kept clean, and litter carriers and feed trucks that make it possible for the labor cost to be kept at the lowest possible point.

Shown in the illustration is the exterior of what is rather an innovation in dairy barn and stable. As will be noted only a section of the building is of two stories, while the adjoining stable is one story. The two-story building, or barn, has plenty of room on the second floor to store the roughage the animals need; there are two large alleys that hold the ensilage, while on the first floor is space for more than forty stalls as well as pens for the bull, calves and the mothers of the latter.

The floor plan that accompanies the exterior view shows the size, number of stalls and the arrangement of the interior of the two stables. The main, or barn portion, of the building is 36 feet wide and 124 feet long. The stable is 36 by 70 feet, and contains 38 stalls. Through the center of both buildings runs a feed alley, while at the rear of the stalls are the litter alleys. This arrangement turns the faces of the animals away from the windows and the light and permits the sunshine to fall on the gutter of the litter alley, where it does much to keep disease germs from multiplying. A study of the plans of this building will show its advantages.

Feeding and milking are the two biggest jobs around a dairy herd. The placing of the two alleys at the corner of the building makes these the shortest distance from the far corners of the "U" shaped structure. Over the feed alleys as well as the litter alleys there is a carrier track, which runs to the feed room between the two alleys. Here the feed is loaded into the carrier, run along the track and distributed in the manger. This same arrangement makes the removal of litter equally efficient.

The buildings shown are of frame construction, set on a concrete foundation, with a concrete floor in the stables. While the size of the building makes it larger than the average dairyman, or farmer will need, the width is correct for a stable of any length required.

known, and is shown in the increased returns from the dairy herd. It was only a few decades ago that a cow or two, a pig or two and a few chickens were maintained on the farm for no other reason than to fit into the farmer's idea that the family must live off the farm. That was before this age of specialized farming. Now the dairy farm, the hog farm and the chicken farm are pretty well recognized as business institutions, just as are the grain farms.

To the animal husbandman, the dairy farm ranks first. The products from American cows run into astronomical figures—all over the billion-dollar mark. And a business of that magnitude must be conducted on a business basis if it is to endure.

ALWAYS DIFFERENCE IN WOOD

No Two Squares Inches of Any Kind Have Ever Been Found to Be Exactly Alike

There are thousands of different species of wood in the world, but no two square inches are alike. The same wood may be plain-sawn or quarter-sawn, but there will be a world of difference in the two. No two, such as I found in the woods. Nor will you ever find two pieces of wood of the same texture.

There are developed very much as a thing is developed. They are all different pieces of wood which are not only different in color and texture, but in the way they are used.

who a history will compare with those fish. It is a story of the evolution of man, and the evolution of the world of wood and its uses. Civilization would have been impossible without wood. Nations which have succeeded and nations which have followed the pathway of the world.

And all these facts must be weighed with a balance and better furnished American homes are considered.

CHANCE FOR MODERN ARTIST

Almost Any Painter Would Make a Hit by the Depiction of Ploek of Glyptodonts.

Artists have painted every kind of picture except one. They have always preferred a flock of sheep to a flock of glyptodonts. We are at one with the artists in their admiration of the lights and shadows of a westerling sun on the backs of sheep making their way homeward along a wooded road. Nothing perhaps so much breathes the atmosphere of bucolic peace.

But let us fancy for a moment, the effect of sunlight on the backs of a coterie of glyptodonts. These were prehistoric animals with a bony back like our tortoises, though they were monsters in size. In any light, they must have made a glittering company, and in any gallery an oil painting of them would create a greater sensation than all the sheep pictures collected there. Visitors would gaze up the sheep at once for the glyptodonts.

What artist now inclined to be conventional will break away in this choice of subjects?—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Man Who Signs Must Make Good!

A responsible man puts his name to a piece of paper and it becomes a check—the equivalent of money.

He signs his name on the back of another piece of paper and it becomes an endorsed note—good for money.

He writes a letter and it becomes a binding contract.

The adding of the name makes these things solemn and legal obligations.

The man who signs is responsible.

Just so with an advertisement—the moment a man signs his name to it he has made a pledge to the public.

He is bound by his word as much as if he signed a check or a note. He must do what he promised on the terms he promised.

If he does not, he counts business disaster. The man who advertises a lie publicly proclaims himself a liar. Such men are seldom in business but frequently in asylums.

It is safer to buy advertised articles than nondescript ones. It is safer to deal with merchants who advertise than with those who do not.

An advertisement is a signed pledge of good faith to the public.

The Joy of Living

by Sidney Gowling

She made an effort to recover her composure. "You have asked this girl to marry you—of an acquaintance of four days?" she said. "Is that—American custom?" "It's quite common," he said, "but I think it's a little extreme, too—sometimes." "With two such recent examples at hand, her ladyship felt unable to contradict him. She looked at him steadily, wondering why she felt so resentful. There was something so remarkably disarming in Spencer's smile that she said at last, "places a new aspect on the case. It is, I suppose, within your discretion to engage your own to a young woman if you wish to do so. The situation in which I found you led me to suspect more irresponsible phantasies than I think most stringently forbidden within the precincts of Jervault. Admitting the seriousness of your intentions," she continued with a warning intonation, "I am still unable to consider your behavior desirable."

Lady Erythra inspected him.

"I was very careful to choose a place just outside the park boundary," he said, "and I was obliged to make use of the small amount of free time at my disposal." "Lady Erythra drew a long breath. "I am making independent allowance for you, Spencer," she said. "Since I cannot forget how far I am indebted to you for the recovery of my composure, I was under a misapprehension as to your conduct just now. It was natural. I will say no more. But I cannot from this event that you will be leaving my service to any case, so I will merely give you a week's notice—if you are willing to stay so long." "Yes, I guess I shall be quitting rather soon," said Billy. "But I'll be very glad to serve your ladyship in the meantime, and I hope I'll give satisfaction. But, may I take it that you won't put it across—that you will not say anything to—Amy?" "I have nothing more to say in the matter whatever," replied her ladyship abruptly. "But you must understand that the conduct of both of you will have to be rigidly circumspect and correct." Billy twinkled. "We shall be careful to give your ladyship no grounds for complaint," he said. Lady Erythra had a vague impression that Billy was laughing at her. It was stranger still that she did not seem to feel any resentment. "You may go," she said, with a gesture of dismissal. Billy saluted and walked away. She watched his little figure till it had receded some little distance, and then she said to herself: "Spencer!" Billy returned. Lady Erythra inspected him through her lorgnette. "Are you sure that this is a wise thing you are doing?" she said slowly. "You seem to me a somewhat superior young man. I think you could do much better for yourself." Billy twinkled yet more brightly. "I should hate to disagree with your ladyship," he said, "but I am quite sure I couldn't." Lady Erythra turned and walked away with a dazed air. Billy passed through the gate into the lane, and made for the abbey at his best speed. He hoped that Almon might be waiting for him somewhere within call, but there was no sign of her. Thinking it likely she would be hurried to that direction, he was within sight from the park boundary when Monsieur de Jussac, approaching the fence from the abbey, saw him and called him by name. Billy was too far away to hear. The vicar's attention, without result. He saw Billy disappear in the direction of the crag-pits. De Jussac hesitated, uncertain whether to follow. "Our amazing chauffeur appears to be in a hurry," murmured Bertrand. He took out a cigarette and smoked it reflectively. Bertrand was looking a little puzzled and anxious. Finally he wandered slowly back towards the abbey. As he neared the main entrance the quack of a motor horn was heard, and an automobile drove up rapidly. It contained the stolid Inspector Panke, a stout, active-looking man in a grey frock coat, raising his eyebrows, drew near unobtrusively. The man in tweeds got out and stepped briskly up to Mr. Tarbeaux, who was standing on the steps. "You have a chauffeur here," said the man in tweeds quietly, "who calls in the follow-hole where stood the

"Yes, sir," said Mr. Tarbeaux. Bertrand de Jussac moved away with the air of one retreating from a situation with which he had no concern. He lit a cigarette as he went, but once on the far side of the rhododendrons, Monsieur de Jussac began to move with uncommon swiftness. "Is he on the premises at the moment?" said the visitor. "I do not know, sir," replied Mr. Tarbeaux with cold reserve, evading the question. "If you wish to see her ladyship—" "I do. Inform her at once, if you please, that the police are here," Mr. Tarbeaux went indoors, leaving the visitor on the step. It was some little time before Lady Erythra herself came to the entrance, grim and forbidding, on-trumpet in hand. "I am Detective-Inspector Arkwright, from Scotland Yard," said the visitor. "I wish to see your chauffeur, four, my lady—William Spencer." "For what purpose?" said her ladyship, examining him fully through her lorgnette. "That will transpire as soon as I have seen him," said Arkwright a little sharply. A face peered down cautiously from a second-floor window. It was the face of Almon, very white and scared. She drew back quickly behind the window curtains, one hand clutching and kneading them tightly as she listened. "Does this mean," said her ladyship with distinct hostility, "that you propose to arrest my chauffeur? If not, what do you mean? He is the man who restored the emeralds to me when the police failed to achieve anything whatever, and I have complete confidence in him. If that really is your intention, it is my opinion you are about to make fools of yourselves." Inspector Arkwright looked both surprised and irritated. "I am here with full authority, my lady," he said abruptly, "and my task is to clear this matter up. Out of consideration for you, I have come here quite openly, and what my intentions are I must at the moment keep to myself." "It is Spencer's afternoon off, I believe," said Lady Erythra coldly. "I do not think he is on the premises." The inspector was plainly taken aback by his reception. His lips tightened to a thin line. Just then a policeman on a bicycle came riding rapidly along the drive. It was Constable Polson. "Beg pardon, sir," he said, dismounting and saluting the inspector. "Have you found the man you are looking for here?" "Well, sir, I know him by sight, of course," said Polson in a lower voice. "The chauffeur, I mean—and as I came off the Stanhoe road awhile ago, I saw somebody like him crossing the forty-acre field and going towards the crag-pits. I thought I'd better hurry on and tell you. I'm sure it was he." "Excellent! You are a man that keeps his eyes open," exclaimed Inspector Arkwright. "Come, Panke—leave the car here. Polson, show us the way." The three of them departed together hurriedly in the direction of the park boundary. Lady Erythra stared after them with mingled anger and anxiety. She waited for some time on the steps, wondering, and then went slowly indoors. Her eyes were troubled. The three policemen, crossing the park, left it by a wicket gate near the sweet-briar clump. After a short consultation with Polson, Inspector Arkwright gave an order. The three men spreading out in a wide semi-circle, stalked the crag-pits by way of the lower meadow. clump of bushes that hid the broken Indian motorcycle, under a rapid survey of the situation. He resumed his task of quartering the ground for tracks. This, being unfruitful, occupied but a little time. He gave it up and went forward again, dipping down into the crag-pits beyond. Billy had formed upon the factory already in his possession a theory which appealed to him strongly. He hoped to prove it. But the hope was very slender. TO BE CONTINUED.
